President’s Column
Joshua M. Duke

NAREA is growing! I feel that our applied-economics profession has endured decades of gloom about declining trends in funding, membership, etc. It wears on us, especially because we know our work is valuable and the problems we study have never been more relevant. Well, NAREA’s membership is up 7% year-on-year in the summer and even more year-on-year this fall. We are coming off the biggest meeting in years, and our journal continues to increase in both impact and papers published. NAREA has a bright future with our continued services and new initiatives. I am thrilled to be part of the association during this exciting time.

Here is my take on the state of NAREA’s operation. NAREA has maintained a consistent management model relative to the changes and professionalization at many other organizations. Our fiscal costs therefore remained low but we all share in the unpaid costs. NAREA’s operation is streamlined because, as shared unpaid-cost bearers, incentives are in place to manage these costs effectively. These unpaid costs are significant, but as professionals I feel that we take turns in service—I heard almost all yeses when I approached members for committee assignments—and we buy-in to a shared vision. By not professionalizing and by slowly but consistently adapting, we are in an excellent position to manage the risks facing professional organizations. Presidents before me have lauded NAREA’s teamwork, and this also is how I see it.

This newsletter covers many of the valuable, productive activities of our membership, committee volunteers, and current leadership team. In the remainder of this column, I highlight some of the recent volunteer work that provides NAREA services and upcoming NAREA activities. This includes two new initiatives: A joint 2015 meeting with CAES and efforts to further strengthen our journal.

Please join me in congratulating our new officers. The President-Elect is Ted Jaenicke (Pennsylvania State University). The Board members are Sarah Jacobson (Williams College), Alessandro Bonanno (Wageningen University), and Patrick Walsh (U.S. EPA). Patrick is fulfilling the final year of Ted’s vacated seat on the Board. I thank all those who ran for office. If you would like to nominate yourself or someone else for the spring election, please email Past-President Kathleen Bell.

We have made a great deal of progress in planning the next three Annual Meetings. Locations for these meetings highlight the diversity and beauty of our region.

Mark Sperow (West Virginia University) leads the local arrangements committee for the upcoming 2014 NAREA Annual Meeting. Mark is working with Workshop Chair Wesley Burnett (West Virginia University) and program chair and President-Elect Ted Jaenicke. The 2014 meeting will take place in the heart of Morgantown at the Waterfront Place Hotel. Thank you Mark for finding such a beautiful hotel in a great location.

I am thrilled to announce that a week ago (in early December 2013) the NAREA Board and the leadership of the Canadian Agricultural Economics Society (CAES) finished negotiating a memorandum of understanding for a joint 2015 meeting. Long-time NAREA members will recall fondly prior joint-CAES meetings in Nova Scotia (2004) and Quebec (2008). The agreement required a lot of hard work, and I am grateful to Valerie Johnson (CAES Executive Director), JP Gervais (CAES President), Maurice Doyon (CAES President-Elect), John Cranfield (CAES Past-President), and the others at CAES who worked to make this joint meeting a reality. I also am grateful to Emi Uchida, chairing the 2015 local host committee, for her efforts to accommodate the larger meeting. Hotel proposals are being collected this month.

The 2016 Maine meeting is also being planned. Kathleen Bell and Mario Teisl are the local hosts, and they are researching locations between Portland and Bar Harbor.

The primary reason our meetings are successful is that the membership attends in high numbers. Thank you to all 129 attendees in Ithaca. I am also grateful for the efforts of each local host committee. Without fail, the departments in the states that are next in our rotation deliver. I had the pleasure of working with Harry Kaiser (Cornell University) on the 2013 meeting, and I know how many burdens these hosts bear. In working with Mark Sperow and Emi Uchida, I know that the 2014 and 2015 meetings are in good hands. The selected paper committee is also a key player in any meeting, and I wish to acknowledge the excellent work of last year’s committee. Selected paper committee chair Martin Heintzelman (Clarkson University) exceeded my high expectations.

The NAREA Board held its fall meeting on November 1, 2013, at the US Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) in Washington, D.C. I am grateful for William Wheeler’s efforts to host us, which were complicated by the government shutdown that ended just in time for us to meet. A major new initiative that the Board has embarked upon involves the international profile of our journal.

The Board hired Morna Conway, President of Morna Conway, Inc., to advise NAREA on future challenges and opportunities related to the journal. Dr. Conway has experience advising other journals in our field and came highly recommended. I have appointed a four-person ad hoc committee to work during the winter and spring with Dr. Conway on two issues. The Ad-Hoc ARER-Planning Committee members include Ted Jaenicke (Chair), Kent Messer (Editor-representative), Allison Borchers (Board-representative), and Spiro Stefanou (Member-representative).

The first issue involves SSCI listing. As many of you are well aware and for better-or-worse, citation metrics are increasingly becoming the measure of impact. Without SSCI listing, the journal foregoes citations, submissions, and the full recognition it deserves. ARER last applied for SSCI during the mid-2000s, when we learned that some threshold conditions (such as publishing three times per year) were not met. Editors since this failed application have been expanding and altering the journal to position it for another application. Since August, Dr. Conway has been consulting on this process, and an application will be submitted during the winter.

Dr. Conway also raised a second issue with the Board involving publishing. NAREA continues to self-publish, and wholly owns the journal. In light of the problems with other journal(s), this seems like a wise decision made during the 2000s when publishers had approached NAREA. Dr. Conway, however, has identified some advantages that may come from a publisher—even though NAREA will still retain ownership. One key advantage would be enhanced exposure through bundling and advertising. The Board decided that it would be worth reviewing publisher proposals, but is not committing to act. So, during the spring, the ad hoc committee and Dr. Conway will request proposals, which will be reviewed at the June Board meeting.

During the last six months, I have been consistently reminded that we have a great team at NAREA. It all starts with the membership. I also want to thank the NAREA Executive Board and the editors. They are not caretakers—they actively seek out opportunities for NAREA.

In closing, I want to extend special thanks to two people who have made my service as president so much easier. Doug Morris (University of New Hampshire), NAREA’s Secretary-Treasurer, and Kathleen Bell (University of Maine), NAREA’s Past-President, have been outstanding mentors, colleagues, and friends. Countless times, I have needed their guidance, feedback, or work. They generously gave their time in supporting me.

2013 NAREA Annual Meeting
Harry Kaiser and Josh Duke

The 2013 NAREA Annual Meeting held at the Holiday Inn Ithaca (June 22-25, 2013), was a tremendous success and had one of the highest attendance levels in NAREA history. The facility met our needs, and though the registration fee was relatively low ($150) the meeting unexpectedly made a small profit because the hotel food was inexpensive and an unexpectedly high number of people attended.
A very large number of abstracts (114) were submitted, and at a late date the hotel was able to provide an additional meeting room, which allowed for 80 papers to be accepted for presentation. This was the second year in a row with approximately 110 abstract submissions. NAREA is growing.

A waiting list was used to fill in withdrawals. Thus, there were 20 full selected paper sessions, plus two excellent invited talks by Dan Sumner and Jayson Lusk. Coupled with the Awards Lunch chaired by Kathleen Bell and the Public Service Award address by Al McGartland, the NAREA meetings proved to be highly engaging.

The program committee consisted of Josh Duke (Chair), Kathleen Bell, Jill Caviglia-Harris, Doug Morris, and Harry Kaiser. We extend special thanks to the Selected Papers and Symposia Committee Members: Martin Heintzelman (Chair), Farhed Shah, Dana Bauer, Sarah Jacobson, Patrick Walsh, and Richard Vyn. We also thank the excellent Workshop Committee (chaired by Brad Rickard), the members of the various Awards Committees, the meeting volunteers, and the session moderators.

129 people registered for the meeting (an increase over the already well-attended Lowell meetings). This suggests, in part, that Ithaca was an especially appealing location. Twenty-three students were awarded the NAREA Conference Scholarship Award. This was an increase from 15 awards in the past several years. We recommend that future program committees consider having five or even six concurrent session to accommodate NAREA’s growth.

2013 NAREA Workshop on Beverage Markets and Policy
Brad Rickard

The 2013 NAREA Workshop on Beverage Marketing and Policy Issues was held at the Holiday Inn in Ithaca, immediately before the NAREA Annual Meeting. The NAREA Workshop began with a keynote address by Professor Daniel Sumner from UC Davis. His talk was followed by 16 selected paper presentations grouped into four sessions: (i) Welfare implications for policies applied to beverage markets, (ii) Wine markets and policy, (iii) Dairy markets and policy, and (iv) Consumer response and perceptions in beverage markets. On Saturday evening, three local wineries came to the Holiday Inn to share their business stories and their wine with Workshop participants. Immediately following the Workshop, there was a tasting and tour at Fox Run Winery and Lamoreaux Landing Winery on Seneca Lake. These visits gave Workshop participants an opportunity to meet with winery owners, learn about some of the key marketing and policy issues in the burgeoning wine industry in New York State, and to try some of the local wines.

There were 38 registrants for the Workshop including the 16 presenters. Generous financial support for the Workshop was obtained from three sources: the Food and Agricultural Marketing and Policy Section of AAEA, the Food Industry Management Program at Cornell University, and the Zwick Center for Food and Resource Policy at University of Connecticut.

A special issue of ARER will publish 11 refereed workshop papers. The guest co-editors (Brad Rickard, Harry Kaiser, and Jill McCluskey) were able to process these papers quickly with the help of the referees.

2014 NAREA Annual Meeting
Ted Jaenicke and Mark Sperow

NAREA will hold its 2014 annual meeting at the Waterfront Place Hotel in Morgantown, West Virginia, from Sunday June 1 through Tuesday, June 3, 2014. NAREA will sponsor selected paper sessions, symposia, plenary talks, and workshop paper sessions. The post-conference workshop on unconventional gas energy resources and related issues will be held immediately after the annual meeting beginning at noon on June 3 and concluding on June 4 after morning tours of a Marcellus Shale well-pad or other energy-related field trip.

A block of rooms has been reserved at the Waterfront Place Hotel for $119 per room plus tax. Accommodations can be booked online from the NAREA web site. Please make hotel reservations as soon as possible.

The opening reception will be held on Sunday evening (June 1, 2014) at the Waterfront Place Hotel and is free for those registering for the annual meeting. The annual meeting registration fee is $150 for members, $175 for non-members, $75 for member students and $85 for non-member students prior to May 1, 2014; after this date the registration fee is $200 for members, $225 for non-members, $100 for member students and $110 for non-member students. The registration fee includes the Sunday evening reception and ticket to Monday's Awards Luncheon.

The Local Arrangements Chair for the 2014 NAREA Annual Meeting is Mark Sperow
The Program Chair is President-Elect Ted Jaenicke (Pennsylvania State University). The 2014 NAREA Workshop Chair is Wesley Burnett (West Virginia University). Questions related to annual meeting paper and symposium submission can be directed to Ted Jaenicke. Questions related to local arrangements can be directed to Mark Sperow, while questions related to the workshop can be directed to Wesley Burnett.

2014 NAREA Workshop on Unconventional Gas and Oil Development: Economic and Environmental Impacts
J. Wesley Burnett

The 2014 NAREA Workshop on Unconventional Gas and Oil Development will be held at the Waterfront Place Hotel in Morgantown, West Virginia immediately after the NAREA Annual Meeting. The Workshop will take place on June 3-4, following the Annual Meeting on June 1-3. On the morning of Wednesday, June 4, we will attempt to organize a tour of an unconventional gas well pad in the nearby region and give Workshop participants an opportunity to meet with industry operators and discuss unconventional gas development.

The workshop will begin with a keynote address on Tuesday, June 3, 2014, from a recognized expert in the field. Following the keynote address we will organize four sessions of selected paper presentations that comprise four papers each; two sessions will occur during the afternoon on June 3, 2014, and two more will occur during the morning or afternoon (depending on the availability of the well pad tour) on Wednesday, June 4, 2014.

This Workshop will bring together researchers examining economic and environmental issues in unconventional gas and oil development. The Workshop Planning Committee is particularly interested in papers from economic science and related fields that (1) provide novel methods for exploring economic impacts, (2) evaluate environmental impacts and risks, (3) develop and evaluate mechanisms for policies that aim to influence the future of unconventional fossil fuel development in the United States, and/or (4) otherwise address the role of unconventional gas and oil in the development of sustainable energy systems and climate change mitigation. The goal of the workshop is to convene recognized and emerging experts to debate and advance research in this subject.

A special issue of the Agricultural and Resource Economics Review (ARER) will be published from workshop papers accepted after an expedited version of the journal’s peer-review process. At this point authors of papers selected for publication in the special issue of ARER will be responsible for covering their page charges; however, we will continue to look for funding to support the costs of page charges for this special issue.

Authors wishing to have a paper considered for the NAREA Workshop should submit an extended abstract by Friday, February 14, 2014. Additional details can be found in the call for papers published later in the newsletter and by visiting the Annual Meeting Website (www.narea.org/2014/).
NAREA CAM—Career Advancement and Mentorship—Program
Jill Caviglia-Harris and Martin Heintzelman

The Career Advancement and Mentorship (CAM) Program, sponsored by NAREA, is a mentoring program held in concert with the NAREA Annual Meeting. The CAM program is a unique opportunity for pre-tenured faculty and early-career scholars to develop and enhance professional networks, receive one-to-one mentoring from an experienced member within the environmental and agricultural economics community, and to attend a dinner and panel session on issues of concern to early career scholars. Martin Heintzelman and Lori Lynch moderated the third annual CAM program at the 2013 annual meeting. This program included panel presentations and discussions on research and funding by Kent Messer, Arnab Basu, Sean Cash, Rob Johnston, and Will Wheeler with addresses by Kathleen Bell and Josh Duke. Doug Morris introduced Neil Pelsue who, as creator of the Past-President's fund, was instrumental in initiating the CAM program. Neil gave a toast to start off the dinner. Attendees provided positive feedback.

The CAM program consists of two parts. In addition to this annual dinner and panel session, the CAM program also includes biennial, yearlong, one-on-one mentoring program held on odd years. We are happy to announce this year’s fellows and mentors:

2013-2014 CAM Fellows
Sarah Cline, U.S. Department of the Interior; Sahan Dissanayake, Colby College; Keith Harris, Kansas State University; Chris Kennedy, George Mason University; Sarah Jacobson, Williams College; Itziar Lazkano, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee; Melanie Lefevre, Boston University and Universite de Liege; Daniel Shashan, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute; Matthew Winden, University of Wisconsin-Whitewater.

2013-2014 CAM Mentors
Titus Awokuse, University of Delaware; Jill Caviglia-Harris, Salisbury University; John Halstead, University of New Hampshire; David Just, Cornell University; Lynne Lewis, Bates College; Lori Lynch, University of Maryland; Kitty Smith, The Council of Professional Associations on Federal Statistics; Mark Sperow, West Virginia University; William Wheeler, Environmental Protection Agency

The mentoring program is off to an excellent start. All mentor and mentee matches have provided an outline of expected goals for the yearlong program, developed a plan for tracking progress on these goals, and set expectations for communicating throughout the year. As one of our mentees stated “It is expected that the mentoring program would provide a sounding board in developing a career advancement strategy and identifying steps to progress toward future career opportunities.” Goals for the year fit within five broad categories: (1) the developing of grant writing skills (including targeting funding sources and applying for grants); (2) assistance with writing skills (including seeking advice on scholarly work, managing a research portfolio, and targeting journals); (3) general career advice (including help with meeting deadlines, assisting with difficult collaborations, and balancing teaching, research, and service with life); (4) guidance on tenure packets (including generating a list of names for outside letter writing and crafting a personal statement); and (5) networking guidance to achieve a greater impact on the field and meeting professional expectations.

We are in the process of developing the program for the CAM dinner planned for the 2014 NAREA annual meeting. We would like for the program to serve two purposes: (1) to review the 2013-2014 program year outcomes and gather information for improving the program in future years; and (2) to recruit our next set of mentors and mentees (to apply for 2015). Look for more information about this dinner in the annual meeting announcements. All are invited. Space will be limited.

2015 Annual Meeting and Workshop in Rhode Island
Emi Uchida

The Department of Environmental and Natural Resource Economics at the University of Rhode Island is delighted to host NAREAs Annual Meeting and Workshop in 2015. This conference will be held jointly with the Canadian Agricultural Economic Society. We are hopeful that this joint conference will bring an even richer exchange of scholarly work and networking opportunities. The Request for Proposals is currently being reviewed by local venues. The dates are yet to be determined and will most likely be in June 2015.

2015 Workshop on Water Quality Issues
Todd Guilfoos

This Workshop will bring together researchers examining economic issues in water quality. The goal is to convene recognized and emerging experts to debate and advance research on the contemporary economic problems in water quality. The Workshop will have an emphasis on the development of markets, human health effects, watershed management issues, non-point source water pollution, and corresponding spatial issues that may be present when dealing with water. The analysis of these issues can help improve policy design and valuation of activities that affect the quality of water. There are also many interrelated topics, such as analysis of governance structures, cooperation and conflict, ecosystem services, and transboundary issues making water quality an attractive area for research.

Papers will be solicited that expand the frontier of water quality economics and that (1) evaluate the development of markets and/or policy design within watersheds; (2) address the valuation of human health issues that occur from impaired waterways; (3) elucidate the relationships between information and non-point source pollution behavior; and/or (4) otherwise address important water quality issues and policy implications.

Secretary/Treasurer’s Report
Doug Morris

Our current membership includes 220 regular members and 81 student members. We also have 27 honorary life members. There are 50 libraries that have subscribed to our journal.

As of October 25, 2013, the Association has total assets of $125,843.81. The NAREA money is currently invested in secure, easily accessible savings accounts plus minimal amounts in the operating checking account.

Agricultural and Resource Economics Review (ARER) Editors’ Report
Kent Messer, Arnab Basu, and Neha Khanna

We are pleased to report on the growth and continued strength of our journal. The switch to a new format and layout of the journal was nearly seamless and has received universal positive feedback. All of the issues of ARER continue to be published on schedule and, importantly, we have begun the process of developing a healthy backlog of accepted papers. This backlog has been a long-term goal of the journal as it will help us maintain on-time publishing and also enables us to begin pre-publishing the articles online, which will increase citations that benefit both our authors and our journal. The first pre-published articles are now available at AgEcon Search and the December 2013 issue will be the first where we publish an electronic table of contents to be mailed to NAREA members and posted on the ARER website.

The number of submissions to ARER continues at record pace. By late October, we have received 84 manuscripts, which already means that this year will the journal will have the highest number of papers ever, and represents an impressive 45% growth in submissions from this same time last year. The recent changes to the journal seem to be contributing to this growth in submissions. In particular, authors have expressed a strong desire to participate in the journal’s programs designed to encourage submissions that involve graduate students. Approximately 50% of our submissions are currently requesting expedited review through this process.

We are thrilled to announce that the NAREA Board elected Todd Schmit from Cornell University to serve as an editor of ARER starting in July 1, 2014. At that time, Arnab Basu will become managing editor. We are also pleased that ARER was mentioned in the New York Times in August. This article focused on the research by Collin Payne and Mihai Niculescu about nudges, social norms and consumer behavior related to fruit and vegetables.

Special Issues

The 2013 ARER special issue that came from the 2013 NAREA Workshop on Beverage Markets and Policy Issues organized by Brad Rickard is on pace to be quite successful. This issue is being guest edited by Brad Rickard, Harry Kaiser, and Jill McCluskey and is being supervised by Kent Messer.

The NAREA 2014 workshop entitled “Unconventional Oil and Gas Development: Economic and Environmental Impacts” is beginning to take shape. Given the timely focus of the workshop and Wesley Burnett’s efforts, we are confident that the resulting August issue of ARER will be exciting.

Digitizing of JNARE

The digitization of the first of the 13 volumes of our journal (referred to as the Journal of the Northeastern Agricultural Economics Council) is now complete and the articles have been added to AgEcon Search. Having these resources digitized captures the intellectual contributions of the past. For instance in volume 3 (1974), the journal published an article by Theodore Schultz (Nobel Prize winner for his development of Human Capital Theory and its implications to development economics). Thank you to the NAREA Board for authorizing the funding for the digitization process.
Application for SSCI Indexing

The Board of Directors approved the hiring of Morna Conway to assist us with the application for indexing in SSCI. Her initial research into this process suggests that there is no guarantee of success. Factors working against success include the extent of market penetration beyond the NAREA membership, having international representation on the editorial board, and the journal’s online visibility. Dr. Conway recommends that the NAREA Board initiate a broad search for a new publisher that may be able to provide these services.

Editorial Board

We are in the process of adding new Editorial Board members—up to 12 editorial board members. Keeping in mind Dr. Conway’s recommendations, we are particularly interested in an editorial board with broad geographic representation and a strong publication record/citation profile.

Future issues

We also continue to track issues facing all academic journals, such as requiring conflict of interest statements, adding DOI numbers for pre-published papers, proof of human subjects approval for any publications, and the prohibition of deceit in papers using experimental economics methods.

ARER Awards

The rollout of the new ARER awards this year was a marked success. As you plan where to place your research, please consider these recognitions.

The ARER Young Scholar Award will be given out each year at the NAREA annual meeting. The award will be given annually to the graduate student who co-authors the best paper in ARER in the preceding year.
The recipient will receive $1,000. To be eligible, graduate students can be listed anywhere in the author list order, however, preference will be given to publications where the significant contributions of the graduate student are reflected in the author ordering.

The ARER Advisor Award, a companion award to the ARER Young Scholar Award, will be given annually to the faculty advisor of the graduate student who wins the ARER Young Scholar award for co-authoring the best paper in ARER that year.

The ARER Fellows award is for authors who have demonstrated sustained excellence in research and commitment to the association’s journal. The ARER Fellows award is given to authors who have published five or more peer-reviewed articles in ARER or under the journal’s former name Journal of the Northeastern Agricultural Economics Council.

For more information about these awards, please contact the ARER managing editor at arer@editorialexpress.com.

Past-Presidents’ Roundtable
Kathleen Bell

In 2012, NAREA initiated a Past-Presidents' Roundtable at the Annual Meeting. This event sought to foster open communications among present and former leadership. In 2013, we held a second roundtable. Current officers provided updates and took feedback on several NAREA initiatives, including the CAM Program, ARER, and the format of annual meetings. Past-Presidents in attendance included Robert Johnston, Harry Kaiser, Dan Lass, David Lee, Lori Lynch, John Halstead, and Neil Pelsue. We thank the Past-Presidents who attended for sharing their feedback and ideas.

Time to Join NAREA or Renew Your Membership!

2014 Membership fees are due on January 1, 2014. There are two options to pay dues: An annual fee of $25 regular and $10 student; or a three-year membership at $65 regular and $20 student. Forms are at the back of this newsletter and the website (http://www.narea.org/membership). These options are also available through the AAEA website for individuals who wish to pay for multiple memberships at once: www.narea.org. Questions should be directed to Secretary-Treasurer Doug Morris (dr.doug@unh.edu).

NAREA Award for Outstanding Public Service through Economics

NAREA calls for nominations for the 2015 Award for Outstanding Public Service through Economics. This award honors and recognizes economists who have applied agricultural, environmental, consumer, resource, or community development economics in a unique way that has contributed toward solving important problems and improving the welfare of society. The recipient(s) need not be a member of the Association. The nomination letter should focus on why the nominee meets the criteria for the award. Nominees will be evaluated on the quality of their work and their demonstrated contribution to improving societal welfare as indicated by the nomination letter.

The recipient(s) will be invited to present an address at the 2015 NAREA Annual Meeting in Rhode Island that will be published as an invited paper in ARER. The recipient will receive an honorarium of $1,000 to cover travel costs. Additional information on nominations and past award recipients can be found at NAREA's website, http://www.narea.org/awards/.
The deadline for nominations is September 1, 2014. Please email nomination letters and to Josh Duke (duke@udel.edu).

Nominations for Distinguished and Honorary Member Awards

NAREA calls for nominations for Distinguished Member and Honorary Life Member Awards. All members of NAREA are eligible for nomination to receive the Distinguished Member Award, in recognition for “continuous and outstanding contributions to the Association, the region and the profession” and typically “to recognize members for significant recent professional achievements in the context of an overall meritorious record.” Recipients may be in teaching, research, extension, administration, government, or business.

The Honorary Life Member Award is given to individuals who are recent active members and who have retired from their main professional position. It recognizes members in good standing of NAREA who have actively participated in the affairs of the Association and its predecessor organizations, as appropriate, and who, while maintaining an active interest in their profession, have recently retired from their formal professional position that comprised the major reason for their initial involvement with the Association.

A NAREA member in good standing must nominate candidates for both awards. The nomination letter should specify why the member is deserving of the award. Additional information can be found at the NAREA website under “Awards”.

The deadline for nominations is March 1, 2014. Please email nominations to: Donna Ramirez-Harrington (djramire@uvm.edu).

Nominations for NAREA Master’s Thesis Awards

The NAREA Outstanding MS Thesis Award includes a $250 cash prize, a certificate, and publication of an abstract (250 word maximum) in ARER at no charge to the award winner.

The NAREA Master’s Thesis Award of Merit includes a $50 cash prize, a certificate, and publication of an abstract (250 word maximum) in ARER at no charge to the award winner. Up to three awards of merit may be granted.

Theses nominations for considerations by the Awards Committee will be evaluated according to the problem formulation, conceptual approach, quality of research, and quality of communication. Nominations must be received by March 1, 2014.

Eligibility: Eligible theses include all those that meet the following criteria:

1. The thesis must have been accepted by any institution of higher learning in the Northeast including those in the Maritime Provinces, Quebec, and Washington, D.C., during the period January 1, 2013, to December 31, 2013.

2. The thesis topic must address an issue within the purview of NAREA. The committee will consider a maximum of two theses per department. The committee will consider only those theses nominated by the department chair or graduate program director. In addition, any member of NAREA may petition the Committee to consider a thesis accepted by another institution in the Northeast, including those in the Maritime Provinces, Quebec, and Washington, D.C. Before the thesis is considered, the Committee will evaluate the petition.
Submission guidelines: To submit a thesis for consideration, please send via email pdf copies of the following: (1) A nominating letter; (2) The full thesis; and (3) The thesis abstract (250-word maximum) to Charles Abdalla, Chair of the M.S. Thesis Awards Committee by March 1, 2014 (cabdalla@psu.edu).

Graduate Student Conference Scholarships

NAREA Graduate Student Conference Scholarships encourage graduate students to attend the annual NAREA Annual Meeting. Each scholarship covers the student registration fee, helping to defray some costs of conference attendance. Priority for scholarships will be given to NAREA members and students who are presenting papers or participating in symposia, although others who may benefit from attendance are also encouraged to apply. All scholarship recipients will be recognized at the NAREA Awards Luncheon.

Applicants for the 2014 Scholarships must complete the application form found at http://www.narea.org/awards. Incomplete or late applications will not be considered. The application deadline is April 20, 2014. Questions about these scholarships can be sent via email to President-Elect Ted Jaenicke (tjaenicke@psu.edu).

Presidents’ Fund

The Presidents’ Fund has been established to support graduate student and early-career professional members’ involvement in the Association. All members can contribute to this fund. Past-Presidents of the Association are especially encouraged to support this fund. The Secretary-Treasurer is responsible for managing the proceeds of the Presidents’ Fund, as well as soliciting contributions to the Fund. A committee composed of the President, Past-President, and President-Elect will be responsible for awarding grants from this fund to graduate students and early-career professionals.

The Association currently has $12,068.80 in this fund. Please consider adding your financial support to this endeavor through a tax-deductible contribution. To contribute contact the NAREA Secretary-Treasurer Doug Morris (dr.doug@unh.edu) or send contributions (made out to NAREA) to:

Dr. Doug Morris, Secretary - Treasurer
Northeastern Agricultural and Resource Economics Association
56 College Road, G68 James Hall
Department of Natural Resources and the Environment
Durham, NH 03824-3589

Please specify that the contributions are to be directed to the Presidents’ Fund.
2013-2014 Committee Membership

The NAREA Bylaws provide for several standing committees and the formation of ad hoc committees according to the needs of the Association in any year.

AWARD COMMITTEES

Distinguished and Honorary Life Member Awards

This Committee shall be comprised of three members. The President shall appoint one member each year, except that he or she may appoint more when a member is unable to complete his or her term. Each member shall serve three years except in cases where appointment has been made to an unexpired term. The senior member shall serve as Chairperson. The Committee shall recommend to the Executive Committee all members to receive the Distinguished and Honorary Life Member Awards.

Award for Outstanding Public Service through Economics Committee

The objective of this award is to recognize an individual(s) who has applied agricultural, environmental, consumer, resource or community development economics in a unique way that has contributed toward solving an important problem and improving the welfare of society. Through this award, the Association intends to broaden the profession’s concept of service and contribution, recognizing that traditional research, teaching, and extension may not always be essential ingredients to make a positive impact on society’s welfare. The recipient(s) need not be a member of the Association. This award would indicate to economists within, as well as outside, our Association that we are concerned about the application of economics to solve problems affecting society. The President of the Association will establish a committee of six members to solicit nominations for the award and to accept self-nominations. Each member of the Committee will serve a three-year term with two new members appointed to the committee each year. The Committee will submit one nomination to the Executive Committee for approval at the fall Business Meeting each year.

Call for NAREA Selected Papers and Symposia
NAREA 2014 Annual Meeting
Morgantown, West Virginia
June 1 – 3, 2014

The Northeast Agricultural and Resource Economics Association (NAREA) will hold its 2014 annual meeting at the Waterfront Pace Hotel, located in Morgantown’s Wharf District overlooking the Monongahela River from June 1 to June 3, 2014. NAREA will sponsor selected paper sessions, symposia, and workshop papers (for a post-conference workshop on Unconventional Gas and Oil Development). Detailed information about the annual meeting and the post-conference workshop is available at http://www.narea.org/.

There will be two types of sessions at the annual meeting: Selected Papers and Symposia. Selected Paper sessions are an opportunity for individual NAREA members to share their current research. Symposium sessions allow members to organize a group of three or four papers on a specific area that is of interest to the membership. Papers and Symposia are invited in the following subject categories: Consumer, Environment, Marketing, Natural Resources, Trade, Rural/Regional Development, International Development, Policy, Innovation, Industrial Organization, Production/Management, Health and Nutrition, Energy, and Other – Specify.

Selected Paper Proposals: Selected paper submissions should include: (i) the title of paper; (ii) names and institutional affiliations of the author and co-authors; (iii) name and e-mail address of paper presenter; and (iv) an extended abstract of no more than 500 words. The Selected Papers Committee will review abstracts in terms of Significance to the Field, Strength of Methodology/Design, Clarity of Writing, Fit Within the Conference Topics, and – if necessary – the number of presentations proposed by the paper presenter. Selected paper proposals should be submitted through NAREA's online submission system accessible at http://www.narea.org/2014/.

Symposium Proposals: Symposium proposals should be submitted by the symposium coordinator. Symposium proposals should include: (i) the title of the symposium; (ii) name and institutional affiliation of the authors submitting individual papers; (iii) the titles of these three-to-four papers; (iv) name and e-mail address of the symposium coordinator; and (v) a symposium justification of no more than 500 words. The justification should describe the strengths of the combined papers and the addition the symposium will make to the conference. Paper abstracts are to be submitted individually by each author. Individual paper submissions do not need to include any introductory material describing the symposium or a description of how the paper fits into the symposium. Symposium proposals should be submitted through NAREA's online submission system accessible at http://www.narea.org/2014/.

The Selected Papers Committee will review symposium submissions as a complete package. Rejection and acceptance decisions will be made for the entire proposal rather than for any individual papers; however, the program chair reserves the right to reject individual abstracts if deemed necessary. The order in which the individual abstracts and symposium proposal are received is not important for review. Individual papers may be submitted at any time before the submission deadline.

Submission Deadline: February 1, 2014. Authors will be notified of the status of their abstract by March 31, 2014. Please note that, if accepted, all presenters must be NAREA members and registered for the Annual Meeting by May 2, 2014. Submission questions can be directed to the paper selection chair, President-Elect Ted Jaenicke (tjaenicke@psu.edu). Local arrangements questions can be directed to local arrangements co-chair Mark Sperow (mark.sperow@mail.wvu.edu).
Call for Workshop Papers
Unconventional Gas and Oil Development: Economic and Environmental Impacts

Abstract Deadline: February 14, 2014

The 2014 Northeastern Agricultural and Resource Economics Association (NAREA) Workshop on Unconventional Gas and Oil Development will be held at the Waterfront Place Hotel in Morgantown, West Virginia, immediately after the NAREA Annual Meeting. The NAREA Workshop will take place on June 3-4, after the Annual Meeting on June 1-3. The Workshop may be attended either alone or in combination with the NAREA Annual Meeting.

The workshop will include addresses from recognized experts in the field, selected paper presentations chosen on the basis of submitted abstracts, and in-depth working sessions. A special issue of the Agricultural and Resource Economics Review (ARER) will be published from workshop papers accepted after an expedited version of the journal's peer-review process.

Depending on the availability of funding, the Workshop Committee seeks to provide a stipend to the presenting author of all selected papers.

Topics for Selected Papers

According to a recent International Energy Agency report, natural gas is poised to enter a golden age as a significant portion of the world’s vast resources of unconventional gas are developed profitably and in an environmentally acceptable manner. The huge U.S. boom in shale gas development has been made possible by two principal technologies: horizontal drilling and high-volume, hydraulic fracturing. Despite the boon of these newly discovered energy resources, there are public concerns about the environmental impacts of horizontal drilling, particularly over contamination of drinking water sources due to the chemical contents in hydraulic fracturing fluid. Until recently unconventional oil and gas development has received relatively little attention among applied economists. This Workshop will bring together researchers examining a broad range of economic and environmental issues surrounding the phenomena of unconventional fossil fuel development as a way to broaden our understanding of the key concerns facing land owners, government regulators, and private industry. In addition, analyses of economic issues facing different types of unconventional energy development are expected to have wider applications across disciplines. The Workshop Planning Committee is particularly interested in cutting-edge economic research with issues that are relevant to unconventional gas and oil development. The goal of the 2014 NAREA Workshop on Unconventional Gas and Oil Development is to convene recognized and emerging experts to debate and advance research on the contemporary economic problems in energy, resource, and agricultural economics.

The workshop committee is seeking papers that advance the frontiers of economic analysis related to unconventional gas and oil development and policy issues. This includes papers from economic science and related fields that (1) provide novel methods for exploring economic impacts, (2) evaluate environmental impacts and risks, (3) develop and evaluate mechanisms for policies that aim to influence the future of unconventional fossil fuel development in the United States, and/or (4) otherwise address the role of unconventional gas and oil in the development of sustainable energy systems and climate change mitigation. Although the emphasis is on U.S. applications, relevant work from outside of the United States will also be considered. Top priority will be given to papers that incorporate well-conceptualized empirical applications, such as quasi-experimental or experimental economics methods, that will result in broader impacts through their effects on society.
Abstract Submission Guidelines

Authors wishing to have a paper considered for the NAREA Workshop must submit an extended abstract by Friday, February 14, 2014. Abstracts may be submitted online at www.narea.org/2014/ and/or via email to Wesley Burnett, the Workshop Chair (email to wesley.burnett@mail.wvu.edu). Abstracts may be emailed at any time prior to 2/14/14.

- title of paper;
- name, institutional affiliation, address, email address, and phone number of paper presenter;
- name and institutional affiliation of any co-author(s); and
- 4-6 key words.

Separate pages with:

- title of paper; and
- extended abstract (1500 words maximum; title and any references cited are in addition to this word limit).

Abstracts that do not comply with these guidelines will be returned without review. Electronic acknowledgements of submissions will be sent to all submitters. Abstracts will be reviewed by the NAREA Workshop Selected Papers Committee in terms of the significance to the field, strength of methodology/design, and clarity of writing. Authors will be notified of the status of their abstract by March 31, 2014.

Selected paper presentations will be 30 minutes. Full papers must be received from notified authors by May 16, 2014, to be included in the workshop's program. ARER must receive final papers by July 15, 2014, to be considered for expedited review in the special issue of ARER.

Further information concerning workshop registration and the final program will be provided in the Spring 2014 issue of the NAREA Newsletter and on the NAREA website.
