The incredibly hardworking Sanjib Bhuyan of Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey has been finalizing the local arrangements for the 2010 meetings in Atlantic City, New Jersey. This year the conference will be held June 13th through 15th, followed by the 2010 workshop on the “Economics of Local Food Markets” on the 15th to 16th. Sanjib has gotten the association an amazing rate at the Trump Plaza Hotel and Casino of $90 per night. But you have to register for the hotel from the NAREA website by May 7, 2010 to get that deal.

The selected paper committee chaired by President-Elect Robert Johnston, with members Jacqueline Geoghegan, Dana Bauer, Jill Caviglia-Harris, Lynn Lewis and Stacy Sneeringer, has selected an interesting and diverse group of papers for the concurrent sessions. They have also invited Dana Bauer from Boston University to present a talk on “Ecosystem Services and Agriculture: A World without Vanilla, Chocolate, and Strawberry?” and Carolyn Dimitri of the Economic Research Service, USDA on “Organic Agriculture: An Agrarian or Industrial Revolution?” At the Monday Award’s lunch, the 2010 Public Service through Economics Award Winner, Tom Tietenberg, has been invited to give an address, which he has entitled “Cap-and-Trade: The Evolution of an Economic Idea”. The NAREA Business meeting will be Monday from 4:30-5:30 pm. Please see the conference program near the end of the newsletter and plan to register early for the best deal by May 14th.

The 2010 Workshop on Economics of Local Food Markets organized by Cheryl Brown, Lori Lynch and Luanne Lohr have put together a great program on this very hot topic. Registration for the Workshop can be found on the NAREA website as well. We thank the funders for their generous support of the workshop: The Economic Research Service of the USDA, The Farm Foundation, and the Northeast Regional Center for Rural Development.

As described in the Fall 2009 newsletter, a new event for the NAREA Annual Meeting has been planned: “Engaging Young Scholars”, organized by Board Members Jill Caviglia-Harris and Jeff Hyde, to be held 3:30 – 7:00 on June 13th, before the opening reception. This event will provide young scholars with the opportunity to learn about the organization and will include short presentations on how to publish in top journals and grant writing “do and don’ts”. The event will also include opportunities for young scholars to interact and get to know the NAREA board members. The Engaging Young Scholars Program is free with pre-registration. To register for the event please contact Jeff Hyde, jeffhyde@psu.edu or Jill Caviglia-Harris, jlcaviglia-harris@salisbury.edu. Jill is also currently working on a proposal to help fund a larger program for next year.

For next year, our Annual Meeting will be held jointly with the Agricultural and Applied Economics (AAEA) in 2011 in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. The meeting will be held July 24-27, 2011 at the David L. Lawrence Convention Center, located in the hub of Pittsburgh’s cultural, business and entertainment district. Pittsburgh and the reserved convention center are reported to be quite beautiful. NAREA will hold up to 18 total concurrent sessions – similar to the number at our normal meeting. Registration will approximate the cost of the 2009 AAEA annual meeting at $300. However, for many of us – combining the meeting will be more cost-effective than attending both. A discounted student rate (around $95) will be available.

Other committees have also been hard at work. The Master’s Thesis committee chaired by Ken Leonard is close to selecting its winner. The Distinguished and Honorary Member Committee, chaired by Tom Ilvento, has also been reviewing the nominations they have received. As previously noted, the 2010 Public Service through Economics Award Winner is Tom Tietenberg. Rob Johnston will be reviewing the applications for graduate student travel grants. The Editorial Board will be announcing the winner of the “Article of the Year Award” at the Annual Meeting as well. The nomination committee is working to get an excellent slate of candidates for the approaching elections. All these awards will be presented at the Monday Award lunch. Be sure to schedule that into your conference activities.

I am looking forward to seeing you all in Atlantic City (where I haven’t been since my undergraduate days when the casinos first opened!) Once again, I’d like to express my appreciation for all the efforts of the Executive Board and others who serve the association through formal committees and informal activities – those I’ve mentioned and many others. As a small association with no staff, we only manage to provide services to our membership and our graduate students through your efforts.

2010 NAREA Annual Meeting
Rob Johnston

The Northeast Agricultural and Resource Economics Association (NAREA) will hold its 2010 Annual Meeting from June 13 – June 15 at the Trump Plaza Hotel and Casino in Atlantic City, NJ—a location famous for its boardwalk, casinos, beaches, shopping centers, and spectacular views of the Atlantic Ocean. Information is available at http://www.narea.org/2010/, including details on the meeting, transportation, hotel and area. The Preliminary Program is included near the end of this newsletter.

Atlantic City is readily accessible by air through two nearby International Airports (Atlantic City or Philadelphia), or by car and bus along three major highways. NJ Transit Rail also runs direct rail service to Atlantic City from Philadelphia’s 30th Street Station, which is on Amtrak’s main Northeast track from Boston to Washington, DC. The main conference hotel is the Trump Plaza Hotel and Casino. Located on the famous Atlantic City boardwalk and a few minutes from downtown businesses and shopping, the Trump Plaza is ideal for business and leisure travelers alike. Parking is complementary for hotel guests. A block of rooms has been reserved at $90 per night plus tax; see http://www.narea.org/2010/ for details. In order to receive this rate, rooms must be booked by May 7.

The opening reception will be held on Sunday evening (June 13th) on the roof of the Trump Plaza overlooking the Atlantic Ocean, and is free for those registering for the conference. The conference registration fee is $160 for members, $185 for non-members, and $75 for students (for early registration). The registration fee includes the Sunday evening reception and ticket to Monday’s Awards Luncheon. The conference program is included below and the registration form can be found on the NAREA website.

Questions related to the conference and location can be directed to the local arrangements committee chair Sanjib Bhuyan of Rutgers University, bhuyan@aesop.rutgers.edu. Questions related to paper submission or the conference program can be directed to the paper selection chair President-Elect Robert Johnston, rjohnston@clarku.edu.

2010 NAREA Workshop on the Economics of Local Food Markets
Cheryl Brown, Luanne Lohr, and Lori Lynch, Workshop Committee

We are pleased to announce the preliminary program for the NAREA post-conference workshop entitled “The Economics of Local Food Markets” June 15-16 in Atlantic City, New Jersey. The complete preliminary program can be found at the end of the newsletter.

The keynote speaker will be Michael Shuman who is an economist, attorney, author, and entrepreneur. Michael has authored, coauthored, or edited seven books, including The Small Mart Revolution: How Local Businesses Are Beating the Global Competition and Going Local: Creating Self-Reliant Communities in the Global Age. Michael has led community-based economic-development efforts in U.S. cities. He is lead author and research director for Community Food Enterprise: Local Success in a Global Marketplace (www.communityfoodenterprise.org), a project by the Wallace Center at Winrock International to profile successful local food enterprises through case studies that focus on industry diversity and innovation.

The workshop also has an outstanding collection of selected speakers and a new poster component this year. To register for the workshop, please complete the registration form found on the NAREA website (http://narea.org/2010meeting/registration.html). Due to generous financial support from the USDA Economic Research Service, the Farm Foundation, and Northeast Regional Center for Rural Development the registration fee for the NAREA workshop has been set at only $50 if one registers by May 14th.

ARER Editor’s Report

Joshua M. Duke and Titus O. Awokuse

We are now well into our final year, transitioning to new editors David Just and Garrick Blalock who began handling new manuscripts in January. We greatly enjoyed our tenure as editors of Agricultural and Resource Economics Review.

The journal reached an important milestone in 2009 by publishing three issues for the first time. In 2010, we also plan three issues. The first two issues of 2010 should have arrived by the end of May. Our final issue will be published in October 2010.

Our last year of accepting new manuscripts was the most successful in terms of the number of submissions. In 2009, we received 103 papers, besting 55 in 2007 and 55 in 2008. In 2009, nine were invited and one was a book review. Of the 94 contributed manuscripts, 6 are in revision, 44 were rejected, and 44 were accepted. These acceptance rates are higher than usual because they reflect three special issues, which used a preliminary screening prior to journal submission.

We are looking forward to completing the transition period with the new editors. As editors, we appreciated the opportunity to serve and believe we have made some significant strides in increasing the quantity and quality of the journal. We believe that the outstanding team of new editors will continue to make ARER stronger. We are grateful to the NAREA Board for its support in the past three years, to Doug Morris as Secretary/Treasurer of NAREA, and to our technical editing team of Liesl Koch, Kate Fahl, and Sue Kummer. Special thanks are extended to all the reviewers and editorial board members who have assisted us in reviewing the manuscripts. Finally, we are grateful for the efforts of the last year’s workshop organizers (John Bergstrom and Michael Kaplowitz; Kent Messer and Jim Murphy) and the guest editors for issue 3 of 2009 (Harry Kaiser, Shida Henneberry, Chanjin Chung, and Joe Balagtas).

Secretary/Treasurer’s Report

Doug Morris

As of April 1, 2010, the organization had 165 regular continuing members and 32 student continuing members. We also have 25 honorary life members. Sixty-one libraries have subscribed to our journal to date. Membership continues to exhibit a trend in long-term slippage. We continue to attract new members or lapsed members renewing, 26 so far this year, but we also lose members especially as they retire or attended a single annual meeting. As of 1 April 2010, we had 83 regular members from the 2009 year that haven’t joined yet.
The Association currently has total assets of slightly more than $95 thousand. Almost $9000 of that amount is held in The Presidents Fund that will hopefully grow and the earnings will begin assisting young professionals in their participation in NAREA meetings and activities. The remaining amounts are split between cash flow reserves for ARER publication and generating returns to fund the numerous grants and awards.

2010 Membership fees are past due. See our website for renewal form, or use the AAEA “check-off” for NAREA, or pay your membership when you register for the Atlantic City meetings.

Presidents’ Fund
Jacqueline Geoghegan

The Presidents’ Fund has been established to support graduate student and early-career professional members involvement in the Association. All members can contribute to this fund. Past Presidents of the Association are especially encouraged to support this fund. The Secretary-Treasurer is responsible for managing the proceeds of the Past-Presidents’ Fund, as well as soliciting contributions to the Fund. A committee composed of the President, Past-President, and President-Elect will be responsible for awarding grants from this fund to graduate students and early-career professionals. The Association has managed to raise $5600 to begin this fund. Please consider adding your financial support to this endeavor.

Call for Nominations: 2011 NAREA Award for Outstanding Public Service Through Economics

NAREA calls for nominations for the 2011 Award for Outstanding Public Service through Economics. This award honors and recognizes economists who have applied agricultural, environmental, consumer, resource, or community development economics in a unique way that has contributed toward solving an important problem and improving the welfare of society.

The nomination letter should focus on why the nominee meets the criteria for the award. Nominees will be evaluated on the quality of their work and their demonstrated contribution to improving societal welfare as indicated by the nomination letter. Detailed guidelines for nominations can be found on NAREA’s website (www.narea.org) as well as in the ARER 2000 issue.

The recipient will be invited to present a keynote address at the 2011 annual meeting in Pittsburg that will subsequently be published in the Agricultural and Resource Economics Review. The recipient will receive an honorarium of $1,000 to cover travel costs.

Nominations must be received by December 15, 2010. Letters of nomination and biographical sketches should be sent to:

Call for Papers for NCERA-210 Annual Meeting

NCERA-210 is accepting abstracts of papers and organized symposia for presentation and discussion at the annual meeting December 7-8, 2010. We welcome abstracts on any topic dealing with cooperatives and related forms of businesses. The abstract should clearly outline the topic to be covered, its importance, its relevance to agricultural cooperatives, and, in the case of organized symposia with multiple participants, the role of each presenter, and a discussion plan. The abstracts should contain the following sections: Motivation, Objective(s), Methods, Results, and Plan for Discussion.

The length of the abstracts should be between one and two pages of text (MS Word preferred). Please submit abstracts electronically to Todd Schmit at TMS1@cornell.edu. Members of the NCERA-210 Executive Committee will begin considering the abstracts on August 16, 2010 and will notify all submitters by September 6, 2010 about paper acceptance.

Candace Roper, Senior Vice President at CoBank, will be our keynote speaker this year. Candace will be speaking about CoBank’s new Knowledge Exchange program, an information- and knowledge-sharing initiative that draws on the expertise and insights of customers, experts within the bank, and people from across the Farm Credit System to develop industry-specific strategic information and research.

Travel scholarships are available for junior faculty and graduate students, with those presenting papers having the highest priority for funding. The Ralph K. Morris Foundation is providing the support. Interested applicants should submit a one page request for funding to the Ralph K. Morris Foundation that contains the following information: 1) Discuss why you wish to attend the conference, 2) submit a budget with travel, lodging, and registration, 3) contact information, and 4) whether or not you have submitted an abstract for presentation. Including a copy of the abstract may also be helpful. Contact the Ralph K. Morris Foundation for more information (ralphkmorrisfoundation.org).

For more information, meeting registration information, and future updates, please check the NCERA-210 web site at: http://www.agecon.ksu.edu/accc/ncera210. Previous abstracts as well as previous programs can be found on the website.

2009-2010 Committee Membership

The NAREA Bylaws provide for several standing committees and the formation of ad hoc committees according to the needs of the Association in any year. Membership for each committee is present for 2009-2010. The tasks of each committee are described in the bylaws: http://www.narea.org/bylaws.html.
