Bonjour to all the members of the International Society of Ocular Oncology. We had a wonderful scientific meeting in Cleveland with crisp academic exchange and enjoyable social events. New methods of chemotherapy for retinoblastoma treatment and innovations in melanoma testing and management were discussed. The Rock and Roll Hall of Fame was a colorful and refreshing venue - from country western to Elvis to rock and roll music.

The International Society of Ocular Oncology has a new slate of officers and each is contributing new ideas for the society’s improvement. A new website has been designed at www.isoo.org so that we are fully functional for information, membership, past meetings and upcoming meetings. The website will be online, ready to work in early 2014. Equally exciting is the anticipated ISOO meeting "extraordinaire" in Paris June 16-19, 2015. The blossoms will be in full bloom and we hope to see you there.

Until then ... "une bonne journée et au revoir!"

Meeting report

Over 300 delegates attended the 16th Biennial International Society of Ocular Oncology Meeting at the Bank of America Conference Center, Cleveland Clinic, OH, USA. Hosted by Arun Singh, we greatly enjoyed the warm hospitality, venue facilities, social program and most importantly the scientific exchange of ideas in Ocular Oncology.

Tim Murray, Program Chair, oversaw plenary sessions, rapid-fire presentations, posters and panel discussions in all aspects of our subject. Leonidas Zografos gave the Stallard Lecture, with beautiful images, on Intraocular Vascular Tumors and Pseudotumors. Furthermore, there were invited guest lectures from Matthew W. Wilson, Yogen Saunthararajah, Pierre Triozzi and Jonathan Dutton.

There were pre- and post-meeting courses in Ocular Pathology, ultrasound and plaque brachytherapy.

The social program involved a welcome reception at the Cole Eye Institute, informal dinner at the Glickman Institute, Lolly the Trolley bus tour of Cleveland and the Gala dinner at the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame.
